UN REPEAL OF PARTITION IS SEEN POSSIBLE

Colombia Asks Reconsideration of Splitup: U.S. Wants Big 5 Study.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 25—Demands partitioning Palestine and perhaps even repeal of the whole scheme appeared possible today in the light of security council developments.

Colombia asked the United Nations to consider a special session of the general assembly to reconsider the splitup plan. The United States asked for a Big Five committee of study and conciliation.

Against this background, the council returns to debate today on the Palestine issue.

The biggest question remaining is: What will Russia say? Well-informed sources said Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko promptly dispatched the text of the American speech to the Kremlin. Moscow's version of what to do about Palestine thus was expected to include some comment, perhaps sharp, on the American stand.

U. S., Russia, Joined

The U. S. and Russia, in a rare instance of cooperation, joined last Nov. 29 to support partition in the general assembly. The plans called for Jewish and Arab countries to be created next Oct. 1.

In a long-awaited policy statement to the council yesterday, chief U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin said the council could not use armed force to carry out partition. He added, however, that the United States was ready to consult under the charter should the U. N. decide it was necessary to use international troops to maintain peace in the Holy Land.

Austin made no direct commitment of American troops. President Truman announced that he approved the speech.

In case the council decides to comply with the request of the UN Palestine partition commission for armed force in the Holy Land, the President will face a delicate problem. High American officials say he will then have to decide whether he has the power to send troops or whether only congress can do it. Some close presidential advisers contend congress alone has the right.

With the obvious hope of avoiding any such situation, Austin asked the council to name a special committee of the U. S., Russia, France, Britain and China to consult immediately with the Jews and Arabs on a settlement based on partition.

The Arabs were understood to be generally pleased with Austin's speech. Zionists leaders were dismayed over the possibly reopening of the whole plane.

300 GALLONS OF GAS SPILLED ON STREET

Quick Action Prevents Possibly Serious Fire.

Quick action this morning by fire department personnel at the Sinclair Refining Co. plant at 518 Silver street, averted what might have been a serious fire when approximately 300 gallons of gasoline overflowed into the street from a storage tank being filled by a transport tank truck.

Sinclair plant officials believe improperly set inlet valves on the tank caused the spillage.

City police and firemen were summoned at 9:30 a. m. to block off the street in both directions. They pumped the spilled gas from the street for disposal to prevent it from reaching understreet sewers.

W. R. Raines, special sales representative for Sinclair, was engineering the bulk plant at the time the mishap and summoned police and firemen.

Red Cross First Aid Cuts Shop Accidents

Reports from industries in many parts of the nation show that Red Cross first aid training has substantially reduced the number of factory and shop accidents, as well as lowered the number of lost work hours.

Robert Solinger, local chairman of Red Cross first aid and accident prevention, reported that during the past year, 10 classes were held in Marion, with 109 persons receiving certificates. Fifteen instructors were authorized through these courses and seven first aid instructors' mobile units were approved by the American Red Cross.

First Aid Equipment

An instructor is authorized to operate his privately owned automobile as a first aid mobile unit. The car is marked with a unit marker and equipped with a 16 unit first aid kit. These instructors are able to give emergency first aid to victims of highway accidents.

Mr. Solinger, as chairman of the first aid committee, heads the following committee: George Landon, detachments; Robert Yazel, coordinator; Don Allen, highway stations; Dr Robert C Campbell, medical advisor; William M. Collins, publicity

The following is one of a series of articles describing the services of the American Red Cross which will launch its nationwide 1948 fund campaign March 1. A goal of $75,000,000 has been set for the nation and Marion county's quota is $25,955. Of the quota to be raised in Marion city and county $14,105, or 54 per cent, will remain here and $11,850 will be forwarded to national headquarters.

First aid instructors authorized to teach in Marion county are: Walter Baker, T. E. Brownlee, C. E. Frost, John W. Hoke, Nelson Irvin, George Landon, Ross McGinnis, Miss Jeannette Powers, Joseph Schnitzler, John Sekinger, Robert Solinger, Thomas Stringfellow, Mrs. Hazel Turner, Robert Yazel and Miss Patricia Wiant.

Preventive Influence Shown

A byproduct of first aid training, the prevention of accidents by making employes accident-conscious, has attracted as much attention as the first aid measures themselves. An impressive array of statistics verifies the preventive effects.

Records of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. of Columbus show that the accident rate declined steadily after Red Cross first aid training was instituted in 1931. Transportation shortages during the war made it difficult to continue the program, and the accident rate began to climb. It is now being brought down again.

How many accidents such first aid and other safety measures prevent is indicated by the company's record showing 34.73 accidents per million man hours before the training began. This was brought to a low of 1.11 per million man hours just prior to the war.

Other Evidence of Results

Another company reported that 90 per cent of its accidents occurred among workers who had not had the training. Several firms have reduced accidents by more than half, and lost work hours to a small fraction of the previous rate.

Red Cross first aid training programs began in 1910 in the small mining town of Jermyn, Pa. Since then, 11,500,000 certificates have been issued to men and women who have completed the courses. Some 346,000 certificates were issued throughout the country during the last fiscal year.

HERBERT PREDICTS TAFT'S ELECTION

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 25 — Gov. Thomas J. Herbert says Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio is the best man for the Republican presidential nomination.

To win in 1948, Herbert warned last night, the GOP must meet the issues "fairly and squarely" because the Truman administration "will endeavor to avoid and evade" them.

"The man who has been meeting them forthrightly is U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft," Herbert continued. "In every respect, Senator Taft is qualified for the presidency of the United States. I predict his nomination and election this November."

The Ohio chief executive spoke at a GOP victory dinner celebrating the election last November of Mayor Charles P. Henderson.

Herbert cautioned Republicans not to expect the Democratic party "to topple of its own weight this November."

He attributed Henderson's victory in Youngstown to "an accumulation of grievances against public officials (Democrats) who were either unwilling or unable to cope with the situation and thereby lost the confidence of the people."

SENATE VOTES RENT CONTROL

Turns to House Bill Today After Passing Own 14-Month Extension.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—The senate turned today to the house-approved one-month extension of rent controls after passing its own bill to continue them 14 months.

The present rent law is due to expire Sunday.

The house voted yesterday to keep it alive "as is" through March.

Last night the senate voted to change the law in several ways but keep controls until the end of April, 1949.

The senate bill is slated to stay in a house pigeon hole until next month. House leaders have made it plain, however, that rent controls eventually will be extended for at least a year.

The house 31-day measure goes to the senate banking committee, which is expected to approve it speedily, probably later today. There was a possibility the senate would pass the bill by night fall, but action tomorrow appeared to be more likely.

Dixie Rebels Aim To Knock Truman Off Party Nomination

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Dixie rebels switched tactics today. Their aim now is to knock President Truman out of the Democratic presidential nomination to avoid having to fight him within the party.

Their strategy is to try to convince northern Democrats that (a) Mr. Truman has no chance to win in November and (b) the party should get another nominee less inclined to press for congressional action on anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and similar racial equality proposals.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) told a reporter:

"The time can come when the party may realize that President Truman can't win. Maybe then we can get another nominee."

McClellan and six other southern senators met yesterday with two of the protesting Dixie governors still in Washington.

The southerners made clear they are willing to think about a great many other men, so long as the one finally picked is not publicly identified with the President's civil rights program.

They came up with some names.

Marshall, Byrd Named

Senator Olin Johnston (D-SC) said Secretary of State Marshall would be just the man. The difficulty is, however, that Marshall has said flatly he will "never" run for public office.

McClellan, who says he doesn't think President Truman could win in November even with southern support, plugged Senator Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) as a substitute nominee. But Byrd, who attended the meeting asked that his name be kept out of that kind of talk.

ASKS COURT TO TEST VALIDITY OF CONFESSION

Accused Slayer Charges Coercion on Part of Sheriff in Colorado.

Testimony in the trial of Edwin D. Young was halted today at mid-morning after defense attorney Paul D. Michel placed him on the witness stand to testify that he had been coerced into making a confession to the murder of Zora Gerbes.

After the jury had been impaneled just before the close of the opening session of the trial yesterday, County Prosecutor James E. Reed took over this morning with the opening statement to the jury. This was followed by testimony taken from four witnesses as the state opened its case.

As Prosecutor Reed proceeded to introduce his exhibits, Mr Michel objected to inclusion of Young's confession. He moved the court to declare it unadmissible. Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith sent the jury to the jury room while the defense attorney's motion came up for argument. After argument, court was recessed until 1 p. m. to allow the state to show cause why additional time should be granted for the state to obtain additional evidence to support its fight for inclusion of the confession as an exhibit.

Courtroom Crowded

A packed courtroom heard the brief opening statement by the prosecutor which led off the morning session. Mr. Reed spoke less than five minutes, merely informing the jury that the state would attempt to prove that Young killed Mrs. Gerbes "purposely and with deliberate and premeditated malice." He concluded his opening statement at 9:20 and then proceeded to call his first witness.

First was Robert Huston, employe of the Black Forest grill on West Center street. Huston testified Zora Gerbes was in the grill the night of July 10, 1947, a few hours before she was found murdered. He said she left the grill alone and did not appear to be intoxicated. He identified Young as being in the grill at the time. Young left just after Mrs. Gerbes, Huston said.

On cross-examination by Michel, Huston testified that Mrs Gerbes had been there on an average of "once every three days."

Next called were Charles and Harry Yeager, the rural youths who came upon the scene at St Paul's Lutheran church early on the morning of July 11. The former took the stand first and identified Young and the license plates of Young's 1933 Chevrolet coupe. He said he had been in Marion with his brother and two other youths and was enroute home with his brother when the incident occurred. He related that he and his brother found Young standing in the church yard and a woman, apparently dead, on the ground nearby.

On cross examination, he testified that Young did not act as though he were intoxicated.

His brother substantiated his account of the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the body. On cross-examination he said he told Young to stay there while they went to call Sheriff LaRoy Retterer.

Sheriff Testifies

The sheriff took the stand next, testifying that he had been notified by Mrs. Albert Ruth by telephone after the boys had gone to the Ruth farm to make their call. He said he found Mrs. Gerbes' body in the churchyard. After ascertaining the woman was dead he notified the coroner and prosecutor. He testified that the body was tied with a clothesline with a slip knot pulled tight about the neck. The line was passed twice around the neck and drawn beneath the knees, he said.

The prosecutor then asked the sheriff to identify the following articles of clothing, which were admitted into evidence without objection:

Exhibit A—black and white checkered blouse, Exhibit B—pair of white moccasins, C—brown leather jacket, D—G.I. green twill fatigue trousers, E—the rope with which the body was tied, F—signet ring, G, H, I, and J., photos of the body taken at the Smith Home for Funerals, and K—the license plates from Young's car.

When the prosecutor prepared to submit the signed confession made by Young in Colorado, defense counsel immediately object-

Guard Seals Czech Border

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 25 — The U. S. Army said today a heavily armed Czech guard has tightly sealed Czechoslovakia's western border.

"Czechoslovak security police are in complete control of the border," a report from headquarters said.

"Guards are placed very close together, armed with submachine guns and pistols. Where 30 security troops are normally stationed in (the border town of) Asch, there are now at least 300."

Even train crews at the border are reported armed.

A proclamation given to Bavarian border police by Czechs at the frontier said no Czechoslovak citizen is permitted to leave that country "under any circumstance."

Army headquarters said German border control officials reported only 18 foreigners had managed to leave Czechoslovakia legally within the last two days. Ten were Dutch diplomats.

Longs Return In Louisiana

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25—The Longs have been recalled to power in Louisiana.

Earl Long, brother of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, received a top-heavy vote over Sam Houston Jones in yesterday's Democratic runoff primary election for governor.

An unofficial count of ballots cast in 1,108 of the state's 1,872 precincts gave Long 252,008 votes to 142,507 for Jones.

The nomination assures Long's election in this traditional Democratic stronghold of the deep south. Republicans, who claimed only about 5,000 registered voters in Louisiana's last general election two years ago, have not yet decided whether they will ever bother to put up a candidate.

Yesterday's vote was a strong comeback for the Long family. Huey's widow said that if Huey himself were here he would be proud of this great victory for the people of the state."

Eight years ago, in 1940, Jones defeated Earl in the race for the governorship and brought to an end the regime set up by Huey Long 12 years before.

In the current contest, Huey Long's 29-year-old son Russell was one of Earl's most active supporters. It is generally expected he will be a candidate for office soon himself.

TAFT-HARTLEY ACTION UPHELD

U. S. Judge Rules Against Effort of ITU To Block Injunction.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 25 — U. S. District Judge Luther M. Swygert ruled against the International Typographical Union in its effort to block a Taft-Hartley injunction filed against it.

Judge Swygert denied the union's motion to dismiss the petition for an injunction filed by the office of Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the national labor relations board.

The judge announced he would hold a hearing at 10 a. m. March 3 on the injunction petition.

In a 13-page opinion, Judge Swygert upheld the constitutionality of section 10-J of the Taft-Hartley act which permits the NLRB to seek injunction relief.

Contention Called "Untenable"

Judge Swygert's opinion said:

"The fatal weakness of the union's contention that the section violates the due process principal is two-fold."

"First, respondent's argument if valid, is applicable to any and every exercise of the power of a court of equity to grant interlocutory injunctive relief to preserve the status quo pending an adjudication of the merits of a controversy.

"Its maintenance would cast a presumption of a lack of due process upon every equitable proceeding which undertakes to grant such relief.

"In sum, the proceedings would be tested for due process not at its conclusion, but at its start. Such contention in respect to this type of remedy is, of course, untenable."

Interprets Section

The opinion set out that there was nothing in section 10-J "or in the other parts of the act indicating that the court, in granting the board temporary relief or a restraining order, may not mold its decree in such fashion as not only to achieve an expenditious determination by the board, but also to avoid if possible determining in effect the actual merits of the issues which the statute requires the board, and not the court, to adjudicate."

The Taft-Hartley act "permits the court to render that equitable relief which it deems just and proper as indicated by the circumstances of the particular case, so that public rights, as well as private rights, are protected during the pendency of the contro-

CZECH LEADER ACCEPTS NEW RED CABINET

President's Action Removes Last Obstacle to Communist Control of Nation.

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, Feb 25—President Eduard Benes announced tonight he has accepted a new cabinet presented by Communist Premier Klement Gottwald, composed chiefly of Communists and their left wing supporters.

The government radio announced shortly before that the president had capitulated to Communist demands, indicating the last obstacle to iron Communist control of the entire nation had been swept away.

The new cabinet includes Social Democrats, who swung back to Communist support this week after several months of estrangement. Other parties also are represented.

Growing demonstrations brought the city to its highest pitch thus far in the crisis, with the threat of a Communist-led general strike to enforce the demands increasing hourly. Soldiers armed with sub-machine guns joined police patrolling the capital as crowds jammed the public square.

The radio, now in Communist hands, said the president had accepted the resignations of 12 anti-Communist ministers from the coalition cabinet. This would clear the way for the Communist seizure of complete power.

The president's office declined to make any statement immediately but did not deny the report. A statement was promised later today.

Communist Premier Klement Gottwald went to the presidential palace to present a list of ministers for a new cabinet. The radio said an announcement of a new government was expected momentarily.

The Communists clamped a grip on communications as the coup rushed to a climax. Nowhere, now, do the opposition parties have a chance to oppose Gottwald publicly.

Proclamation Broadcast

Immediately after the announcement that the Premier Benes had capitulated, the government radio broadcast a proclamation of the Social Democratic party, key to the crisis, denying a split in its ranks.

The broadcast said the proclamation was signed by Zdenek Fierlinger, pro-Communist former premier who was deposed last November as the party's chairman when it declared independence from the Communists. Fierlinger vaulted into party control yesterday.

The other signer was Bohumil Lausman, former minister of industry, who had succeeded Fierlinger.

The president was expected to make a radio address soon.

The presidential office said that, taking part with Gottwald in the conferences with Benes, were Communist Interior Minister Vclav Nosek and trade union leader Antonin Zapotocky. Zapotocky led a one-hour token strike in the nation yesterday in support of Gottwald.

Only the lack of Benes' approval had blocked the Communists from making their coup final and complete.

The Communist newspaper Rude Pravo hit the streets at 3 p. m. with a special edition threatening a general strike if Gottwald's demands were not accepted by the president. A hastily added bulletin carried the announcement that the president had capitulated.

Throng Fills Square

At 3:30 p. m. the public square of the capital was jammed with thousands ready to demonstrate in support of the Communists demands.

Regular army soldiers, many carrying submachine guns, swelled the ranks of police patrolling the capital.

The government radio carried an interior ministry announcement that new evidence of a plot has been uncovered, implicating members of the Slovak Democrat party. This party is one of the three opposition groups which had withdrawn from the coalition in protest against Communist moves to capture complete domination of the police and security forces last week. The broadcast accused these party members of accepting bribes from an agent of a western embassy, identified as a man of Czech ancestry, to give him military information.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATION

CHRIST in You, THE HOPE of Glory

OUR LENTEN PRAYERS

Luke 11:1 Lord, teach us to pray"

PRAYER is the perennial need of every heart that longs for fellowship with God The content of our prayers depends more upon our conception of God than upon the immediate needs of the moment

If God is a holy God then the worshipper cries out with Isaiah, "Woe is me—for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts" Before we can truly worship a holy God, our unclean lips and sinful hearts must be cleansed by the absolving touch of God's forgiveness in the Christ of Calvary Or we might exclaim with Peter when we feel that we are in the presence of Divinity, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord"

Heartfelt sorrow for sin of any kind may be expressed in both private and public prayer. Penitential prayer is the most characteristic form of public prayer in the Bible. This is especially true of the Scripture lessons selected for the Lenten season, like Joel 2 and Matthew 6 and many others.

Inhaling Penicillin Dust

The usefulness of penicillin is being constantly extended especially when it comes to infections of the nose, throat, windpipe, and lungs. I have written earlier of the way in which such patients can be treated, simply by having them breathe penicillin in the form of a fine mist. This is known as the aerosol treatment.

More recently it has been found that penicillin can also be inhaled in the form of dust which, in some cases, is even more effective than the mist. By this dust method, the penicillin dust reaches every part of the respiratory tract and is evenly absorbed by all

No reactions were noted in 64 patients treated in this way. This dust containing the penicillin was inhaled for twenty minutes three times a day. For three-fourths of the patients with upper respiratory diseases, such as colds and sore throats one treatment was sufficient

In cases of chronic bronchitis or chronic sinus infections, as many as eighteen treatments were necessary Infections in the windpipe and lungs required ten to eighteen treatments

A special apparatus is required for administering the penicillin dust This consists of a facepiece which fits over the mouth and nose, and which is connected with a chamber containing the dust There are valves which open and close as the patient breathes in and out By means of an air inlet on top of the facepiece, the amount of penicillin dust inhaled can be regulated, and it is made possible for the patient to breathe easily

When penicillin is used in this way, not only does it come in direct contact with the affected tissues, but, in addition, it is rapidly absorbed into the blood Within three hours a goodly amount has entered the blood Of course, the blood carried it to all parts of the body

When penicillin was first discovered, it was given only by injection into either a muscle or a vein Because it was so quickly eliminated from the body, injections had to be given frequently—every three or four hours right around the clock This meant that it could only be used when the patient was in the hospital or under the care of a trained nurse at home.

Later on, preparations of penicillin were made which were effective when taken by mouth However this method required a great deal more penicillin for successful treatment as when injections were used. Still later it was found that solutions of penicillin in oil, when injected into a muscle, were absorbed so slowly that only one dose a day might suffice for some conditions.

Then came penicillin mist, and now we have this new method for the administration of penicillin in dust form, which promises to be the most useful of all in many infections of the nose, throat, and lungs.

NEW YORK

FRECKLES . . . freckles . . . freckles . . . I've had a transcontinental rash of them.

It all began some days ago when I wrote about borrowing a freckle from a five-year-old girl I know. I found myself in a pickle when she asked me to return it. She said she was sure her freckle had become lonesome for her.

Hal Boyle

But how can you give back a borrowed freckle to an imaginative child? You can't just tell her:

"Sorry, small fry, I had to turn it into the federal tax collector."

My first plan was to tell her that her freckle had changed into a chocolate bar—and hand her one. I figured that the candy bonus would still any doubts in her mind.

But readers from coast to coast began sharpshooting at that prospective solution.

"She'd feel like a cannibal, eating her own freckle," objected Rosemary Sprague of Cleveland Heights, O. "Oh, you didn't mail the chocolate bar?"

She proposed instead that I inform the little girl that her freckle had been changed into a beautiful golden buttercup and that she would find it some day when she grew up.

THE LITTLE GIRL sounds like one of the sweet sensible kind who know there are fairies," wrote Jennie M. Barholm of Fitchburg, Mass.

"Why don't you let her know the fairies have the missing freckle and are polishing it and polishing it until it gets all spandy new looking.

"Then some night when she's fast asleep, a fairy will fly in and gently put it back on again. She'd better look in the mirror every morning, and when there's a freckle that's apparently brand new, then she'll know it's the one."

A lady in Burlington, Ia., suggested that I buy a dime store doll and "paint a gorgeous freckle right on the end of her nose." Mrs. Rose Emerson of the Bronx, New York City, recommended that I tell the little girl I was pasting the freckle in a letter to her but freckles in such cases frequently fade and disappear.

MORE SOLUTIONS came from Sacramento, Calif., Columbia, Mo., International Falls, Minn., and other cities—but none from Hollywood, where freckles sometimes support people instead of vice versa.

I got so much varying advice in this "case of the purloined freckle" that I was at wits' end what to do. Nobody agreed except on one point—that my idea about the chocolate bar was all wet.

Then came the letter that solved the whole problem.

"I felt sorry for you so I am sending you a few of my own freckles," wrote 13-year-old Carlene White of Portland, Me. "They are not real, but I hope they'll do."

In the letter was a tiny cellophane packet containing 12 freckles. If Carlene hadn't described them as Freckles, I would have sworn they were pieces of red eraser from a led pencil.

I DELIVERED them promptly to the little girl. She accepted the freckles gravely, thanked me and said:

"They aren't exactly my color anymore. You must have left them out in the rain and they got rusty. I bet they're glad to be back with me—'cause I'll take better care of them."

Anyway I learned one thing. I'll never borrow a wart.

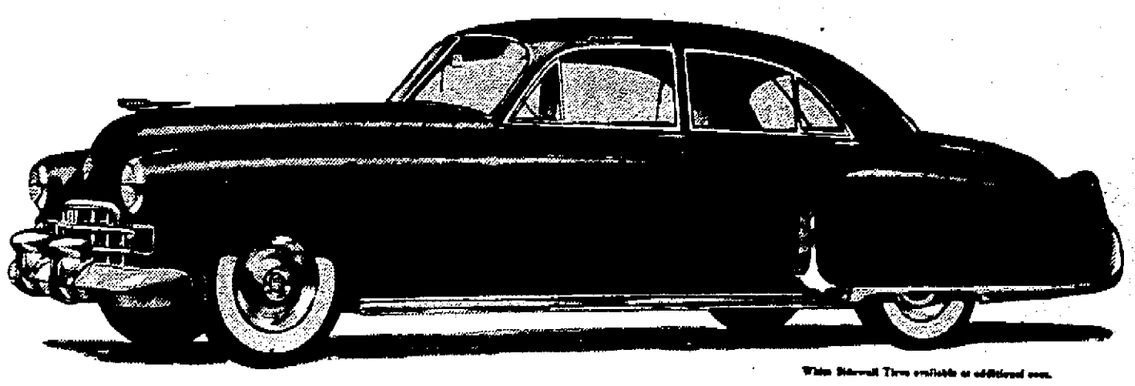
Cadillac

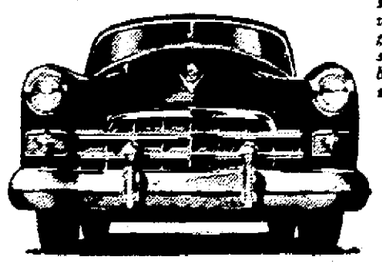
PRESENTS

THE New STANDARD OF THE WORLD!

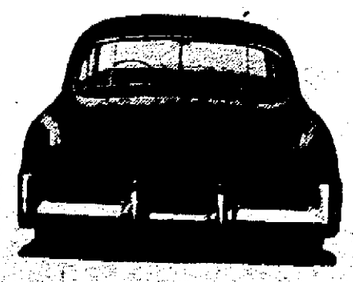


White Sidewall Tires available at additional cost.

Today, the world has a new standard by which to measure motor cars. For Cadillac has taken a great stride forward—one of the greatest, perhaps, in its entire history of automotive pioneering. As is always the case when a new Cadillac is introduced, the advancement embraces every phase of automotive goodness. The exterior appearance is wholly new, and represents the soundest principles developed in years of research. Interior design and finish are a complete departure, and add immeasurably to comfort, beauty and convenience. Performance is finer in every way, for the great Cadillac chassis and engine have been thoroughly refined. And vital improvements in factory equipment have raised even Cadillac's high standards of manufacturing. In fact, all the attributes which have contributed to Cadillac's reputation as the world's premier motor car have been made more pronounced. Regardless of the price class from which you expect to select your next car, you are cordially invited to view the new Cadillac—now on display in our showrooms. When the standard of the automotive world has been so decidedly raised, it should be of interest to everyone.



Cadillac's basic characteristics of design are fully apparent in the front view of the 1948 model. Bumper and grille are even more massive. The symbolic V ornament and crest have been pleasingly refined to harmonize with new, low hood lines.



Viewed from the rear, the 1948 Cadillac shows a complete departure in design. The full-width rear window improves appearance and safety. Smart "rudder-type" fenders, protected by sturdy bumper uprights, give an appropriate touch of fleetness. Note the wide, low rear deck.

JAYCEES GIVE BOSSES PARTY

Annual Dinner Is Held at Y.M.C.A. in Honor of Employers.

The Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce held its annual Bosses' dinner at the Y.M.C.A. last night with 57 members and guests present.

Each Jaycee introduced his boss and guest. The toastmaster was interrupted by "Joe Safety," a dummy employed in the Chamber's safety campaign earlier in the year. Joe kept punctuating every statement made to express a thought of his own on pedestrian safety.

Out-of-town guests were: Don Taflinger of Lima, vice president of Ohio State Junior Chamber of Commerce, who was making his official visitation to the local Chamber; John Pinefrock of Mansfield, national director of Ohio State Junior Chamber, serving in his official capacity for the national organization and making the first of two yearly visits here.

Robert Solinger introduced George Britton of Akron, past vice president of the Ohio State Junior chamber, who was Mr. Solinger's "boss" last year. Mr. Britton has received the "Outstanding Young Man of the City" award in Akron, and one of the awards given at the national convention of the Junior Chamber in California last June. He won the "outstanding state president" award at the convention. In his talk, he stressed the negligence and indifference of people toward community welfare.

Hugh E. Webster, executive secretary of Marion Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly, and then introduced Paul Felder, chairman of retail promotion committee and head of the "Boost Marion" campaign. Mr. Felder spoke on the progress of the campaign.

Jack Lautenslager, president of the Marion Junior Chamber, served as toastmaster and head of the committee in charge of the Bosses' dinner. Serving with him on the committee were Don Flack, first vice president, Richard Lister, second vice president, William Collins, treasurer, William Parks, secretary and Robert Solinger, Ray Coleman and William Cowles.

Newsman, Who Started Work in Prospect, Dies

Fred W. Gallant, 69, veteran newspaper man who began his journalistic career on a weekly paper at Prospect, died yesterday at Youngstown, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Prior to going to Youngstown where he was city editor of the old Youngstown Telegram, Mr. Gallant worked on the Ohio State Journal near the turn of the century, and also in Newark, O., and Newcastle, Pa. He had made his home in Youngstown for a number of years.

tionalized sugar industry on the floor above The Associated Press. They said the sugar industry employes were the only ones whose movements would be controlled.

Gottwald had seen the president at his palace just before noon.

His visit followed an exchange of letters during the night which seemed to presage Benes' acceptance of the Comumnist demands.

The exchange was made public shortly before noon in a special one-sheet edition of Mlada Fronta, youth newspaper, and they were read on the later broadcast of the government radio.

The president's letter said he still insisted upon parliamentary democracy for Czechoslovakia. It blamed the crisis on the present international situation.

It added, however, that:

"In the crisis itself the principle of the National Front (the country's seven-party coalition government) is not rejected."

The Communist answer insisted the party could not deal with the present leadership of three opposition parties, declared the president should accept the resignations of the 12 ministers and demanded that Gottwald be allowed to pick his own cabinet.

The letter promised that Gottwald would name "democratic progressive" members of the three opposition parties.

The president has insisted steadfastly that the parties which instituted the postwar republic in 1945 must remain in office under coalition.

Red-Inspired Trouble In France, Italy Seen Next

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 — The Communist sweep in Czechoslovakia will be followed soon by new Soviet-inspired trouble in France and Italy, diplomatic quarters predicted today.

The Moscow timetable is now believed to call for increased pressure on Greece, Turkey, Finland and Iran.

Diplomats studying events in Czechoslovakia feel there is no hope of that nation throwing off the Communist yoke in the forseeable future. The frank consensus now is that the highly-industrialized nation "is lost to the west."

RULING

versy before the board," the opinion said.

Ruling out the union's contention that the NLRB lacked authority to delegate its power to seek injunctions under the act and that the general counsel's office had no right to ask for the injunction, Judge Swygert wrote:

"It is not unreasonable to assume that congress intended that the board might delegate to the general counsel duties equal in importance with those expressly enumerated (in the act)."

"The statute itself, as well as its legislative background, indicated that it was the purpose and policy of congress to separate the judicial functions of the board from any prospective or investigative functions," the opinion went on.

"The consistency of such a delegation with the congressional intent to sever the judicial functions of the agency from its prosecutive activities is emphasized when the authority to initiate interlocutory proceedings for temporary relief under section 10-j is more carefully considered.

"If the board itself were to petition the court for such temporary relief, not only would it be performing a function of a prosecutive nature, but also it would have considered, ex parte, facts which relate to the very issues upon which the board must ultimately pass in its quasi-judicial capacity.

"It is reasonable to assume that such prosecutive action and prejudgment on the part of the board might tend to cast the shadow of partiality upon the further and principal proceedings before the board."

The office of Robert N. Denham, general counsel for the NLRB, is seeking the court injunction as a temporary stopgap to prevent the ITU, in its dealings with newspaper publishers, from following policies which the Denham office has charged are unfair labor practices.

The NLRB, in a case now pending, will ultimately decide whether the union is guilty.

Clarence Martin, who is representing the ITU as local counsel, could not be reached for comment on Judge Swygert's ruling.

Power Co. Employe Injured in Accident

Russell C. Shockey of 274 Forest street, an employe with the line department of the Ohio Public Service Co., suffered a cut on his head and bruised back and shoulder yesterday while at work.

The accident occurred about 3:45 p. m. when Mr. Shockey was replacing a bulb in the street light standard at the east side of the courthouse. The anchor rods which support the standard had rusted off and when Mr. Shockey, on the ladder, leaned against the post, it gave away, knocking him to the ground, company officials said. When the post fell, it caused slight damage to the top of a car owned by Lloyd Wallace, which was parked nearby. Mr. Shockey was taken to City hospital for X-rays and then removed to his home. Five other employes were present when the accident happened.

That's the Catch

THE United Nations policy of the United States in the Palestine problem is to consult with other members of the security council, meanwhile calling upon "all governments and peoples, particularly in and around Palestine" to take all possible action to prevent or reduce disorders.

That's the catch.

If governments and peoples were of a mind to prevent or reduce disorders there would be no problem in the first place. No one can miss the horrible significance of the appetite for violence in this most aggravated of postwar trouble spots. It is as though all the violence leading up to World War II, the war itself and the high-minded resolution to do better in the future never had happened. This is the future—and there is still violence.

An international force under United Nations authority might be only an added mockery of cooperative security. It probably could not work like a police force but would become part of a pattern of belligerency already established. There is still hope—there always is hope—but evidence is accumulating that peace is still what men talk about when they are tired of fighting, then reject when they become angry.

Attention: Bank Robbers

GLEN H. TAYLOR of Idaho, who has hitched his political wagon to Henry Wallace's star, says he will be glad to have the votes of bank robbers, along with the vote of the Communists, if they'll help him do what he thinks is right. No one doubts that he means what he says.

Only the thoughtless will ho-hum the development that has given Wallace a running mate with Taylor's demonstrated weakness for circus antics in politics. He will have the chance of his political lifetime to demonstrate what can be done on a national scale with his particular specialty of appealing to the childishness of those Americans who'd rather have a vaudeville show than a dignified approach to public problems.

It is now recognized generally that the Democratic party's disintegration is likely to be the major political event of 1948, with the election next November taking place as an anti-climax. The addition of Taylor to the Wallace third-party movement dramatizes the collapse of the New Deal coalition. In 1944, when Taylor won election from Idaho as a United States senator, he was just another freshman New Dealer swept out of obscurity into the upper chamber of congress.

Sardonic Laughter in Germany

THE heated exchange between a German war crimes trial judge and the chief prosecutor, both Americans, is another instance which will detract from American prestige in Germany.

The judge, Charles F. Wennerstrum of Iowa, had given an interview in which he said the victor wasn't the best judge in a war crimes trial. This brought a rejoiner from Brig. Gen Telford Taylor, the prosecutor, that the trials were conducted with utmost fairness and that Judge Winnerstrum had expressed no qualms during the eight months he sat in judgment.

The Germans these days must find much that gives them ironic amusement—the allies tiffing among themselves, life in the Russian zone as regimented and policed as it ever was under Hitler, and an American judge and prosecutor wrangling over a point of ethics and international law that would never have bothered a Nazi chieftain.

Patchwork Job on Germany

THE current London discussions on unifying "Bizonia" represent an attempt by the United States, Britain and France to make the best of a bad situation. It is now almost three years since V-E day and the future of Germany politically, economically and internationally is still uncertain.

The Potsdam agreement of 1945 set forth the allied intention giving the Germans "the opportunity to prepare for the eventual reconstruction of their life on a Democratic and peaceful basis." Different interpretations of the adjectives "democratic" and "peaceful" have been the stumbling blocks. To Russia, "democratic" means "pro-Soviet." To France, "peaceful" means "lacking heavy industry."

To unite the French-controlled sector of Germany with the already-merged American and British zones will require a guarantee to Paris that Germany's war-making potential will be held in check. This guarantee will have to provide for the future of the Ruhr and a system of government which will give France no cause for alarm.

The problems being ironed out in London won't yield the final answer to the German question. Representatives of three of the four principals with liens on Germany are attempting to reconcile their differences without insults and without soapbox speeches. Only when the fourth principal cools off and adopts the same attitude will the German problem be approaching final solution.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Interesting Question About "Jock" Whitney.

FEW men are as respected by their colleagues in any field as Senator Arthur Vandenberg is in the congress of the United States. More, he is liked. I have heard both of the leading Republican contenders for the nomination speak of him with real affection. This is so unusual in a pre-convention campaign in which everybody seems to say that none of the others can be elected.

It is therefore distressing to listen to a new line of propaganda put out by the Stassen people that the best of all tickets for the Republicans to nominate would be Vandenberg and Stassen. That is certainly a permissible aspiration, but what is extremely bad taste is the reason given for the association. It is that Senator Vandenberg suffers from a heart ailment and that if anything happened to him (it almost sounds like a wish) the vice president would be fit for the presidency.

SOKOLSKY

To me, that sounds pretty cheap and nasty. Cardiacs (and I do not even know if that is true about Senator Vandenberg and I do not choose to inquire) have a way of fooling the most optimistic about the state of their health. They often go on and on outliving their most athletic relations whose hopes are shattered by their persistence.

Should Be Settled

Senator Vandenberg has stated that he is not a candidate and that ought to be final about him and General Eisenhower and anyone else who chooses not to run. Certainly, he is too big a man, within his party and the nation, to be a stalking horse for Stassen or anyone else. The Stassen propagandists exhibit extremes of desperation, even in their ambition to make him a vice president. They seem to imply that any joe is good enough for him.

The other day, I called attention to the peculiarities of the contributions to political parties. In the report of the house committee on campaign expenditures, it is stated: ". . . Joan Hay Whitney, who contributed to Bryan, also contributed to Tammany Hall."

About "Jock" Whitney

Bryan was the Republican candidate; Vito Marcantonio was the Tammany candidate; "Jock" Whitney contributed to both, although they ran against each other. That is an old game, but not a nice one. It represents an utter debasement of our political system. This "Jock" Whitney has been a New Dealer, an ardent supporter and follower of Harry Hopkins. He was an intimate of the White House when Franklin D. Roosevelt was president. In fact, he eventually married the first wife of James Roosevelt. Under the New Deal, he served as a "special adviser and consultant on public affairs" in the state department. He has been so closely affiliated with the New Deal in the public mind that no one suspected him of being a Republican; yet his name popped up in this congressional report as having contributed to a Republican candidate and to Tammany Hall simultaneously. The question is to which party does he really belong or does he shop around for favorites?

Now, the significance of "Jock" Whitney is that he is being named as a principal financial supporter of Harold Stassen among those who are being told that Stassen has plenty of money to spend in the campaign against Taft in Nebraska and Ohio. Pre-convention expenses need not be disclosed and therefore this report may never be confirmed, but it is being circulated boastfully by Stassen supporters.

A Natural Question

Mr. Whitney or anybody else is entitled to make his own choice and to put his money behind any man. There is no crime in that. The question does arise, however, why one who has been an ardent New Dealer, a close-to-the-throne adherent of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a votary of the sage Harry Hopkins, finds himself among the Republicans and is supporting a Republican candidate for the presidency, or why he permits it to be so bruited about.

When General Eisenhower was a candidate, the New Dealers flocked to his standard; that was natural, for he had been one of Roosevelt's favorites. But Stassen has been an antagonist of the New Deal all these years, a straight Republican. Why should New Dealers flock to him? Is Truman so offensive that they would prefer Stassen? That might make votes for—Truman.

Looking for a Place To Which To Abdicate?

President Truman returns to this country today following a brief visit to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

What's he doing . . . looking for a place to establish a haberdashery in the event of a Republican victory?

Of course, it may be merely that the tropical sunshine agrees with Mr .Truman, in contrast to congress.

He doubtless finds it refreshing, there in the Gulf stream where the breeze is constant and there is no necessity for sending up trial balloons to determine which way the wind is blowing.

At any rate, the President's visit to the Caribbean islands surprised a lot of people. They didn't even know they could vote there.

Incidentally, Henry Wallace spent last week campaigning in Florida. Did Truman see any signs, as he flew over:

They Want To Come Back

By Jane Eads

THE seven women members of congress are tossing their bonnets into the ring again this year.

Margaret Chase Smith, Republican of Maine, elected to the house to complete her husband's unexpired term in June, 1940, and reelected to succeeding congresses, is out to capture a seat in the senate.

She is competing against Horace A. Hildreth, the incumbent governor of Maine; Sumner Sewell, a former governor, and Rev. Albion P. Beverage, in the Republican primaries June 21.

Mary Norton of New Jersey, deal of women members of congress and the first to be elected to congress by the Democratic party, says she had wanted to withdraw from politics and get back into social welfare work.

But her supporters back home wouldn't hear of it, says Representative Norton, who has been in congress since 1925 and is now ranking minority member of the house committee on labor. She says she guesses she'll stick it out for another term if elected.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, Mass., veteran woman member on the Republican side of the house, says she's also running for reelection and doesn't think she'll ever give up.

She was elected to congress June 30, 1925, to fill the vacancy caused by her husband's death. Reelected to all succeeding congresses, she is chairman of the house veterans affairs committee.

Francis P. Bolton, of Ohio, elected in February 1940 to fill the unexpired term of her husband, and thrice reelected, is a candidate for renomination in the primaries May 4.

Helen Gahagan Douglas of Hollywood, now serving her second term in congress, expects to enter the Democratic primaries June 1. Former stage and concert star, she is the wife of screen actor Melvyn Douglas.

About Bricklaying

Representative John E. Fogarty, of Rhode Island, a former bricklayer, disputes assertions that building trades unions are restricting the construction of homes. He said a statement to that effect, put into the Congressional Record by Representative Ralph W. Gwinn of New York, was just "not true."

Representative Fogarty said that when he laid bricks there was no limit on the amount of work he did, and "there is none now on bricklayers." The Rhode Islander, president of Bricklayers Union No. 1 in his state, said comparisons of the number of bricks laid each day 20 years ago and now were not fair because of changes in construction. Putting a brick facing on a frame wall is not the same as building a wall entirely of brick, he said.

"Making a brick wall like that was known as throwing bricks in a hole, and you broke your back all day long picking them up and putting them in," he recalled. "It was no trick to lay 1,000 bricks a day that way."

She's for Flirting

Flirtation is one of the most civilizing of all influences on young people, Dr. Marjorie Taft told a conference of the Family Relations Group in London. Dr. Taft, as organizing secretary, looks after the members of 300 mixed youth clubs in the metropolis.

"The sad thing is," she said, "that the art of flirtation has been lost in working-class homes because there is no living space in which to practice it.

"Young people deprived of an adequate opportunity of flirtation commit themselves as life partners at far too early an age, before they have had sufficient contact with a variety of personalities. Mixed clubs give them a chance of getting to know socially large numbers of the opposite sex and to share together tasks with a social purpose."

Bonus Payments

By their favorable votes Nov. 4, Ohio and New York became the sixth and seventh states to approve veterans' bonuses. Payments previously had been approved by Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

California, New Jersey and Oregon have authorized the sale of securities for veterans' aid but payments include amounts for farm and home loans and housing, as well as cash. Pennsylvania will vote on a bonus in 1949. New York's $400,000,000 bond issue is the largest approved so far but Ohio's maximum individual payment of $400 exceeds New York's by $150.

After World War I, 19 states sold $342,520,141 in bonds for bonus payments by July, 1924. Nineteen additional states subsequently authorized issuance of $25,550,000,000 more in bonus bonds.

Builds Own Church

By The United Press

COMSTOCK, Mich. — Herman Meints, celery grower, felt so thankful for the safe return of his four sons from military service a year ago that he decided to build a church.

Without previous building experience, Meints single-handedly erected a neat cement block structure, which he called the Comstock Bible Church. A congregation grew.

Meints preached the first sermon, conducts four services a week as an ordained elder and uses his own trucks to take children to Sunday school.

Presidential Primaries

By Alexander R. George

WASHINGTON — Selection of the men and women who will choose the Republican presidential nominee starts March 9, when New Hampshire holds its presidential primary election.

The big political interest this year of course is in the Republican primaries. Nomination of President Truman by the Democrats is taken for granted.

The New Hampshire election is the first of 14 state presidential primaries scheduled in March, April, May and June to elect state delegates to the national conventions in Philadelphia next summer.

Voters in the primaries get a chance to show their preference for a presidential candidate in two general ways.

In some states they vote directly for a presidential candidate as well as for delegates to the national conventions.

In other states they vote for would-be delegates to the national convention who favor certain presidential candidates.

Most states, however, do not hold presidential primaries. Instead, the political parties hold state conventions at which delegates are elected to the national conventions.

There are five kinds of Presidential primaries. The various types and the states in which they are used are ▶Presidential preference vote and direct election of delegates to a national convention who may be pledged to a certain presidential candidate, Ohio, Oregon, Wisconsin.

▶Presidential preference vote and direct election of delegates to national convention who are not pledged, Illinois (except delegates-at-large, elected in state convention), Nebraska, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

▶Presidential preference vote but election of delegates to national convention by state convention, Maryland. (Delegates to Maryland state convention are pledged in accordance with the presidential preference vote in the various counties and the legislative districts of the city of Baltimore.)

▶No presidential preference vote but direct election of delegates to national convention who may be pledged to a presidential candidate, California, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey and South Dakota.

▶No presidential preference vote but direct election of district delegates to national convention who are not pledged to any presidential candidate, New York (delegates at large chosen in state convention).

In some states the names of presidential nomination candidates are placed on the primary ballot and are voted on directly by the party voters. The elected delegates then are usually required to support the presidential candidate receiving the highest number of votes. That's the system in Oregon and Ohio.

In states where the voters do not directly vote for presidential nomination candidates, but delegates may be pledged, it works this way: Individual candidates for delegates or a complete slate of delegate-candidates file with their nominating petitions the names of their favorite presidential candidate. The presidential candidate's name is then placed on the primary ballot beside the delegate's name.

A vote for the delegate in question indicates the voter's preference for the presidential candidate whom the delegate is supporting.

After the New Hampshire primary the next presidential primaries are scheduled to be held in New York and Wisconsin on April 6.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap

The Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap looked a little baffled. Like everybody else he had the depression worries. "The state of the mousetrap business bothers me," he admitted, pacing the factory floor. "My question is whether the mousetrap production has at last caught up with the mice."

"What is the path-to-the-door situation?" we asked.

"Not too clear," he said. "There are just as many people on the path to the door, but I am not positive they are all path-beaters. I can't make out how many are beating paths and how many are just caught in the crowd."

"Doesn't a genuine path-beater show it by his general manner?" we inquired.

"You have to look close to be sure whether a path-beater has stopped beating. I fear a lot of people who act like path-beaters just now are merely jumping up and down of sheer nervousness."

"What do your surveys show? Has the mousetrap demand dried up at all lately?" we pressed.

"Oh, there's been a little drop. Buyers are more cautious. So are the mice."

"Will there be a price cut?"

"It all depends. If corn, wheat and soybeans continue to drop mousetraps will have to drop."

"How about subsidies?"

"Of course I feel that the mousetrap business should be subsidized. Everything else is."

"Have you tried to get any Federal assistance?"

"Washington is cooperating to some extent. A couple of bureaus have been named to study the path-beating situation and report to the President. And Mr. Truman has named two boards, a Committee to Take a Mouse Census and a Commission to Investigate the Mousetrap Situation and Prepare a Long Range Federal Mousetrap Program. But these things take time."

"Does the administration seem friendly?"

"You know how Washington is. It's election year and it is difficult to find out exactly where anybody stands on anything, even on mousetraps. Truman doesn't want the responsibility for the mousetrap crisis. Taft, Dewey and Stassen will not take a stand on mousetrapping until the Democrats take one."

"How about Henry Wallace?"

"I understand Henry is for free mousetraps. And in any case where a mousetrap does not catch mice, Mr. Wallace promises to put a cat."

* * *

At this juncture there were signs of activity on the Path to the Door.

"That may mean a renewed demand," we suggested, noticing it.

"I don't know," signed the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap. "It could be just a rush. Those path-beaters are not putting everything into it. When the mousetrap business is good they beat a path all to pieces."

A Rough Time

By TRUMAN TWILL

The Associated Press says the young American couples who've gone to Australia under the Australian government's program for boosting the sub-continent's population are disappointed.... Prices are high. Accommodations are poor. There is too much red tape. They say conditions were misrepresented to them when they were being talked into taking the chance of starting new lives in a remote land. Heartbreaks and disappointments lie on every hand. They are writing about coming home to warn other suckers to steer clear.

There's a story something like theirs in the family histories in this country—a story of people who came to a new and sparsely populated country full of bright promise and endless bounty. It was the end of the rainbow for adventurers with the courage to go there, the wise man said.

So some hardy spirits tried it. They got there. They wanted to go, but they weren't sure they wanted to stay when they got there. The accommodations were punk. Heartbreaks and disappointments lay on every hand. They talked about clearing out in a hurry and spreading the bad news back home. Some did. But some stayed.

They had a rough time. The natives were hard to get along with, especially when it dawned on them that the visitors had ideas about running over the place. Occasionally a native would be heard to ask another native, "If they don't like it here why don't they go back where they came from?"

The weather was tough. It was a struggle from beginning to end. But there were some good features too. There was plenty of room. The fresh air, beautiful sunrises and sunsets and much opportunity it choked up people who had the sense to appreciate it. To be sure, things were as rosy as the sales talk they'd been given, but it was still a lot of something.

So the newcomers plugged away, contrived and struggled and gradually got the hang of the thing. The land was fruitful. they were fruitful and in a jiffy of sorts their progeny was eyeing new batches of bedraggled immigrants and wanting to know why they didn't like it here, they didn't go back where they came from. Some did go back. But most of them stayed.

That was what made the United States. The young Americans who've had a bum deal in Australia can find any comfort in it that's made it possible for thousands of Americans today to boast that their ancestry goes back to the Mayflower Pilgrims—who came here in 1620 because they were told they'd like it once they got used to it—and they did.

Harding High School Band Program Set for Thursday

Two Bach chorales, a movement from a Beethoven symphony, overtures, waltzes, light numbers, modern American musical selections and marches will make up the program to be presented by the Harding High school band Thursday night at the Palace theater in its annual concert. Homer Huffman, supervisor of instrumental music in the city schools, is director.

A march, "136th U. S. Field Artillery" by Fillmore, will open the program, followed by an overture, "Majesty" by O'Neill. Composer of this number, Captain Charles O'Neill, a Canadian now living in Quebec, has made several outstanding contributions to original literature for band. The band will then play two Bach chorales, "Rise, My Soul, To Watch" and "O Morning Star, How Fair and Bright!" Bach-Lake. These two chorales were originally written for church choir and organ.

The third movement from Symphony No. 5 by Beethoven, which he called his "Pastoral Symphony," will be the next selection by the band. To this movement Beethoven gave the title, "Joyful Gathering of Peasants."

Completing the first half of the program will be a light classical composition, "Serenade Badine," Gabriel-Marie, a waltz, "Girls of Baden," Komrak-Lake, and a march, "Fairest of the Fair," John Philip Sousa.

Between the two portions of the program by the band, the brass sextette made up of members of the band will give two numbers. They will be "Memories of Stephen Foster," arranged by Holmes, and "Gordian," a miniature symphonic poem, by Johnson. Members of the sextette are Bob Wingett and Jim Wanner, cornet, Jim Lytle, horn, Fred Hall, trombone, Dick Lattimore, baritone and Ronald Holloway, sousaphone.

The second half of the band program will be highlighted with "modern" American music compositions. The first will be "Song of the Bayou" by Bloom, which has been widely accepted as a classic in the field of spiritual composition. By means of the music, a story is told of Negro worshippers approaching their little church in a worshipful attitude when suddenly a heavy storm appears. The worshippers enter the church where they pray and sing, frightened by the rain and darkness. Then suddenly the storm is over, and once again the sun appears.

"Tropical" by Morton Gould will be the second modern music composition.

Completing the last portion of the program will be an overture, "Achilles," Floyd J. St. Clair, a contemporary American composer, a "Popular Medley," arranged by Briegel, "Meadow Lands," (March of the Steppes) by Knipper, a Spanish waltz, "Marchena," Fulton, and a novelty, "Little Red Caboose" by Moffet. Concluding the program will be the school song, "The Red and Black," composed by Richard Myers in 1932, the alma mater, and The National Anthem.

The band concert is sponsored annually by the Band and Orchestra Parents association, which is headed this year by Mrs. Closs Musgrave.

Doors of the theater will open at 7 p. m. and the program will start at 8 p. m.

Program Planned By Child League Is Heard by 250

Speaker was Dr. Tennyson Guyer of Findlay, whose topic was "Four Questions from a Boy."

1 DEAD IN OHIO PLANE CRASH

Co-Pilot Is Killed in Flaming Wreckage of Cargo Ship Near Columbus.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—A twin-engined freight plane crashed and burned in an apple orchard 17 miles east of here early today, killing the co-pilot

The victim, found burned beyond recognition in the cockpit was Pete de Cicco, 24, of Hackensack, N. J. His pilot, Jack Cole, 26, of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. was thrown clear but suffered a broken back and severe head cuts He was brought to St. Francis hospital here in critical condition

The big ship, carrying dresses, shoes, pocketbooks, brassieres and corsets for a Columbus department store, apparently clipped the tops of trees before plowing into the orchard, 100 yards east of the farm home of Joseph V. Camden on the Franklin-Licking county line.

See Burning Plane

Camden said he and his family were awakened by an explosion about 5:45 a. m. and saw the ship burning when they went out. He said a series of explosions followed.

They saw Cole standing 25 yards from the plane, "apparently trying to decide whether to attempt to rescue his buddy." He collapsed as Camden ran to him De Cicco's body was found two hours later.

A thick fog hung over the neighborhood.

John Morrison, president of Ohio Freight Lines, Inc., said Cole telephoned him from McKeesport, Pa., saying he had landed to take on more gas. Morrison quoted Cole as saying he had run into heavy headwinds and expected to arrive at Port Columbus at 5:45 a. m. This turned out to be the time of the crash, 10 miles short of the airport.

Headed for Detroit

The ship was owned by Bruning Airways of Hasbrouck Heights, N J. It had taken off from Teterboro, N. J., and was to have gone on to Detroit after unloading its Columbus shipments

P. J. Vollmer, inspector for the civil aeronautics administration, started an investigation. The state highway patrol reported that the plane had been in contact with the Port Columbus control tower a few minutes before the crash.

STEEL PRICE HIKE CRITICISM MOUNTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 25—Official criticism of the steel price boost mounted today as the government hunted for signs of a new inflationary spiral.

President Truman's order, which sent FBI agents digging into steel industry records for evidence of possible anti-trust law violations, won quick approval of Republican and Democratic leaders alike.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters he was "glad to see" the administration taking steps to determine whether the law was violated Taft is chairman of the senate-house economic committee which has summoned three steel industry leaders to a hearing March 2.

Senator Barkley (Ky), the Democratic leader, said "Everybody is wondering why the terrific price increase was made. The people are entitled to know whether it was justified."

And the Republican governor of a leading steel state, James H Duff of Pennsylvania, said the price hike showed a "shocking disregard for the national welfare."

It's simple It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rexsol Concentrate Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if undesirable pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; one sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Income Tax Time—No. 3

Use of Form W-2 in Making Income Tax Return Explained

WASHINGTON, Feb 25 — [illegible] your 1947 [illegible] Form W-2 [illegible] statement.

[illegible] receipt of any [illegible] from a boss for tax [illegible] wages or salary in [illegible] He must give it to you.

If he don't do any tax-figuring [illegible] Just fill it out and mail [illegible] your forms, revenue collector. Don't send any to the boss.

He'll check it and notify you if you owe him money. You have 30 days to pay [illegible] him after he notifies you.

If he finds too much tax withheld from you in 1947, you'll get a refund.

James Marlow

Husbands and wives — if both had 1947 income, they can use Form W-2 as a separate or joint return — don't lose money either way by filing jointly or separately.

By law the collector must figure out which way is cheaper for them when he gets their separate or joint returns. If they have a refund due, he'll send it to them.

If you worked for more than one boss who withheld tax from you in 1947, get a Form W-2 receipt from each.

You can't make a return on Form W-2 without all your receipts. Without them you'll have to file your return on the 1040 short-form.

When you have them all, attach them all to the Form W-2 receipt you got from your last boss.

Fill out that last one, not the others. But you send them all in to the collector.

Keep the Duplicate

The boss gives you a Form W-2 in "original" and "duplicate." You keep the "duplicate." Fill in the "original" and send it to the collector.

On the front of the "original" the boss has written your name and address, his name and address, the money he paid you and the tax he withheld.

So you don't do anything on the front of the "original," except check your name and address. Turn it over. Then you answer simple questions on the back.

This is the way you do it:

Say you're married, with three children, and your 1947 income was $4,500 from wages or salary. Your wife had $50 income in dividends on stock.

On line No 1—left side, back of "original"—you write your salary $4,500, and, on line No. 2, your wife's $50.

Add them and write the total, $4,550, on line No 3. On line No. 4 (A) write your wife's name.

On line No. 4 (B)—where it asks if your wife had any income—write "yes."

Under line No. 4 (B) it asks if your wife's $50 income was included in line No. 3. In this case, say "yes."

On line 4 (B), where it asks, write your income, $4,500, and your wife's income, $50.

And on line No 5 state your occupation, and your wife's occupation.

Move over now to the right side where it tells you to list your exemptions.

You claim your three children as exemptions since none of them had income of $500 or more. (If a dependent has income under $500, it doesn't count.) Write in their names. Each exemption takes $500 off your income before it is taxed.

Because this is a join return, you and your wife both sign. You'd sign it alone if you alone had income or your wife was making a separate return.

Now it's filled out. Send it to [illegible]

Next Tuesday: the 1040 short-form.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

The Present National City Bank of Marion Is the Outgrowth of The City National Bank, Which Was Opened May 15th, 1901.

Assets included $100,000 capital, $400,000 deposits and $25,000 surplus and undivided profits. A. I. Merchant was the first president, D. R. Crissinger, vice president, D. H. Lincoln, cashier, and J. H. Wetmore assistant cashier.

Growth from that point is illustrated by the recent announcement that the National City Bank of Marion is now numbered among the first thousand in size of the 14831 banks in the nation—standing number 983.

In 1915 it became a member of the Federal Reserve System which membership continues to the present time.

HEALTHY growth of the community and the bank's business led to a reorganization of its capital structure in September, 1920, and an increase in capital to $300.000. At that time deposits had increased to $1,100,000 and surplus and undivided profits to $30,000. The name was changed to The National City Bank and Trust Company of Marion with D. R. Crissinger as president. Other officers were James B. Guthery and Fred E. Guthery, vice presidents, D H. Lincoln continued as cashier with L D. Zachman and Robert E. White as assistant cashiers.

The new board of directors were Mr Crissinger, John D. Owens, James B. Guthery, E Browne, Frank A. Huber, Mr. Lincoln, Fred E. Guthery, W. W. Morral, Josiah Bindley, F. E. Morrison and W. H Holverstott.

In 1921, due to the resignation of D. R. Crissinger to become Comptroller of the Currency under President Harding, Mr. Fred E Guthery was elected president of the bank, a position which he held until his untimely death in April, 1943.

Under his guidance the bank experienced its greatest growth.

To the vacated position Robert E White, who had been cashier, was elected and E. Paul Bachman, who had been assistant cashier, was elected cashier with W. C. Haldeman, R. C. Hurr and Ralph Q. White, assistant cashiers.

In January, 1940 the name of the bank was again changed. The new title was The National City Bank of Marion, which it remains. Capital was $200,000, surplus and undivided profits $175.000 and deposits had increased to $3,000,000.

Mr. Fred E. Guthery continued as president of the new bank with J. M Strelitz and A. J Berry vice presidents. Robert E White was cashier and E. Paul Bachman, assistant.

We wish to extend our thanks to all customers who were so co-operative during the remodeling. We greatly appreciate your patience and good humor under trying conditions and inconvenience.

Directors now were Mr Guthery, W. W. Morral, A E. Monnette, Mr Berry, Mr. Strelitz, Chas. B. King, Ed Ruth, J. J Stafford, Mr. White and Howard F. Guthery.

The years since 1940 have seen our statement of Resources and Liabilities grow to the following figures as of Dec 31, 1947. Capital and Surplus, $900.000, undivided profits $117,000 and deposits over $16,000,000.

Due to the increased volume of business, it was decided more space was needed to give better service and at the same time to modernize the entire institution. Additional space was secured by taking over the bank basement which had been occupied by Abel's Billiard Parlor.

About 15 months ago modernization was started. Every effort was made to interfere as little with uninterrupted business as possible which, coupled with the difficulty in obtaining some of the materials and equipment, delayed the completion to our satisfaction until the present time.

Believing you would prefer seeing at first hand rather than reading detailed description of our new installations, we again extend a cordial invitation to attend our opening Friday evening.

Plans for Postwar Europe Weighed by President and Hull

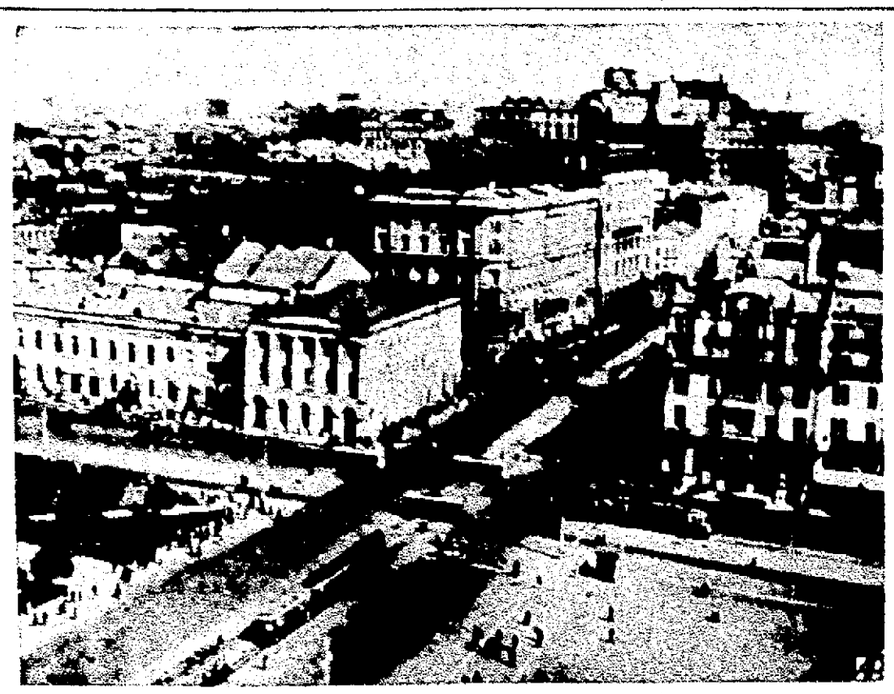
INSTALLMENT XXVII

ABOUT the time of the Quebec Conference, (August, 1943), a ... of the Soviet press suddenly put forth the idea that, although a meeting of the chiefs of the American, British and Russian governments was impossible because of Stalin's preoccupation ... during the stupendous battle in the east against Germany, ... of the foreign ministers could well and fruitfully be held. ... President and Churchill both took up this suggestion con... and asked Stalin whether he shared the opinion that a ... of the foreign ministers of the three powers in the near future would be expedient. Stalin replied to both on Aug. 24, stating that he was in accord. He added that the meeting should not be of a narrow exploratory character but a practical preparation leading to definite decisions of the three governments. He suggested that the range of questions to be discussed should be determined in advance.

Following exchange of views with Churchill the President sent Stalin a further message on Sept. 6, in which he said that both Churchill and he were pleased with the idea of a political and military meeting on the foreign minister level. Although the prime minister had suggested London or another city in England as the meeting place, the President said he thought a more remote spot would be better. He mentioned Casablanca or Tunis, or even Sicily. He said he wanted to send me to the meeting but he did not want me to undertake so long a journey, hence he would send Under Secretary Welles.



HULL'S FIRST AIRPLANE TRIP took him from Washington to Moscow for a foreign ministers' conference. Above is a view of the central section of Moscow's business district.

TWO DAYS LATER Stalin suggested Moscow as the place and the beginning of October as the time, and on Sept. 11 the President agreed.

At this time Welles was still in Maine, and I had reliable information that he was writing numerous letters to friends in Washington that he had been the victim of ill-treatment.

After a certain amount of this had accumulated, I went to the President. I recalled to him that he and I had agreed to Welles making the trip to Moscow as the best means of getting him out of the department without a public sensation, but that now conditions were different. Welles had not seen fit to join in with our plans but had gone off to Maine, whence he was writing many persons and apparently endeavoring to martyrize himself. I also recalled to the President Welles's remark when I had brought up with him our plan to send him to Moscow, namely that nothing could be gotten out of such a trip. I said I now would oppose his being given recognition by the state department unless he retracted some of the harsh criticism attributed to him and declared his loyalty to the department and the administration.

WELLES DID NOTHING of the sort, but continued his long-distance criticism of me and the department generally. As the campaign went on by one or two newspaper critics closely associated with Welles, to the effect that I was Russia's enemy and wanted to see her bled white, I then went to the President and said I would strenuously oppose Welles's going to Moscow.

I said to the President that, wherever the conference might be held—anywhere between here and Chungking—I would be there myself.

The President immediately expressed his gratification that I would go, and he repeated it two or three times with emphasis. He was also surprised. He knew I had not been feeling well, that I was no longer young—I was then on the eve of 72—and that I had never before been in an airplane.

He did not know another fact—I suffered somewhat from claustrophobia. One hot night some years before, while on a railroad sleeping car with the windows open, which was passing through a long tunnel, I awakened and became conscious of apparently suffocating from carbon or other gases. I thought the train had been obstructed in the tunnel. Ever since then I had had a horror of being in cramped, enclosed places. I had that feeling about airplanes, and consequently had never flown before.

NEVERTHELESS I now decided I had to fly to the diplomatic engagement at Moscow just as an officer had to take his unit into battle whether he wants to or not.

I made my decision on my own, without consulting my doctor, or Mrs. Hull.

Prior to my departure for Moscow, I had conferences with the President on Oct. 4 and 5 and luncheon with him on the 6th, to go over the various projects likely to come up at Moscow. On the 5th I took Stettinius, Hackworth, Dunn, Matthews, and Pasvolsky with me to the White House for a comprehensive discussion with the President, in which Admiral Leahy also took part.

We agreed at this conference that we should make every effort to secure both British and Russian agreement to China's participation in a four-power arrangements (a declaration on postwar agreements, including establishment of an international peace organization. Russia had opposed China's inclusion.—Ed. Note). We thought the four-power concept should be preserved, even at the cost of getting no agreement at this time. China was too important a factor, both now and in the future, both because of herself and of her influence in British India, to be alienated.

AS FOR GERMANY, the President said categorically he favored the partition of that country into three or more states, completely sovereign but joined by a network of postal arrangements, communications, railroads, customs, and perhaps electric power, although he thought power arrangements should be made on a continental basis. The new German states, he went on, should be deprived of all military activities, including training, and of armament industries. East Prussia should be detached from Germany, and all dangerous elements of the population forcibly removed.

The President took up the argument others of us advanced that partition would have many undesirable results and that the customs union arrangement either would prove to be unworkable or would become a powerful instrument for the reunification of Germany. He said we were inclined to exaggerate these effects. He said he had traveled and studied in Germany, could speak German, and thought he knew Germany better than we did. He insisted that partition was the solution. The conversation shifted to other topics, but after a considerable time the President suddenly brought it back to Germany by saying that, after all, it was many years ago that he had become acquainted with Germany and perhaps he didn't know so much about her as he thought. He then said that the whole transitional period would have to be one of trial and error, and that it might well happen that we would discover that partition, undertaken immediately after the war, would have to be abandoned. He thought that reparations should be exacted in manpower and equipment.

MR. ROOSEVELT SAID there was not likely to be any trouble over the restoration of Holland or the Scandinavian countries, but that Belgium was likely to present difficulties. Apart, he said, from the quivocal position of King Leopold, then a prisoner of the Germans, who had British support because Churchill believed in the restoration of monarches, but who might cause trouble with regard to the Belgian government-in-exile, Belgium was an artificial, bilingual state with the Walloons and Flamands traditionally at odds with each other. The President mentioned, in this connection, a German duty made in 1840 proposing a federal union of Alsace, Lorraine, Luxembourg, and the two parts of Belgium.

As for Poland and the Baltic States, the President said that, when he should meet with Stalin, he intended to appeal to him on grounds of high morality. He would say to him that neither Britain nor we would fight Rus-

WHILE the St. Mary Irish are closing out their basketball season in a title game with Marysville at Delaware Friday night, the Harding Prexies will play their final clash of the season against the champions of the Northern Ohio league—Bellevue—on the foreign court . . . . The Bellevue Redmen, enjoying their third league title in four years, won the cup by knocking off seven straight league opponents, but fared worse in non-league play, losing six of 11 independent tussles . . . That makes their season record 12 wins and six losses. Bowling Green, Ashland, Mansfield, Fremont Ross, Elyria and their alumni came out on top in scraps with the Redmen—Ashland winning by six points, 47-41. League teams who have gone down include Upper Sandusky, Willard, Norwalk, Galion, Shelby, Bucyrus, and Crestline, and the Redmen also stormed over Lorain, Port Clinton twice, Sandusky, and Elyria.

THE REDMEN WILL have a height advantage over the Prexies in Dean Todd, six-foot-four center who has been averaging nearly 12 points a game . . . . That puts him a couple inches up on Prexy center Jim Coss but may not work to the Prexy's detriment if Coss is up to the keen backboard game he played against Bucyrus and several other of the Harding games this season . . . . Bellevue Coach Kenny Sampson also has a pair of consisent scorers in Milt Bruckner and Jim Lepley . . . The latter netted 21 in leading Bellevue to a 50-49 edge over Vic Janowicz and company's Elyria netters.

COACH GENE FETTER of St. Mary said today that all cage coaches in this area who want to see the St. Mary-Marysville battle in Delaware Friday night will gain their admittance by appearing at the door . . . Since time doesn't permit sending out passes, he took this method to invite the mentors, several of whom had expressed a desire to see the title clash . . . Probably scouting for the up-coming Class B district tournament . . . Wives are also invited.

NORTHWEST DISTRICT DRAWINGS SATURDAY

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Feb. 25—Coach Al Pesek and assistants Don Burkey and Charles Tschanen will represent Bucyrus in the northwestern district Class A tourney drawings to be held in Findlay Saturday morning.

Bucyrus Redmen, who ended the season in second place behind Bellevue in the northern Ohio league, are keeping in shape for the district play, Tuesday afternoon the team was taken to Mansfield to work out on the Senior High floor with the Tygers.

Farmer Jones Returns Thursday

Farmer Jones with or without his pet pig will return to the Marion Armory Thursday night to do battle with one Red Lyons. Lyons won the right to meet the Farmer in the two hour main event by defeating Paul Orth last Thursday. It has been quite a long spell since the ever popular "Pig Raiser" has shown his wares around these parts but the fans remember him well for he can use his feet the same as his hands and he generally hands out plenty of punishment with both of them and before the bout is over Red Lyons may wish he had somebody else in the ring.

The one hour semi-final should give out with some fast and exciting wrestling for it brings back Bill Murray who upset Billy Rayburn last Thursday and this Thursday Stocky Nelson will try his luck with the popular Canadian. Both matches are for the best two out of three falls. The ten minute prelim at 8:30 is between Oscar O'Hara and Paul Kincaid. Prices remain the same 50c-75c and $1.00. Call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store for your seats because everybody will want to see Farmer Jones.—Adv.

Willie Pep Successfully Defends Title by KO of Humberto Sierra in 10th

Arturo Godoy Wins 10-Round Decision from Irish Pat Richard

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25—Cuban Humberto Sierra's effort to lift the world featherweight championship from Willie Pep was just water over the dam today.

Pep retained his title in a most convincing manner in the Orange Bowl last night when he knocked out Sierra in 22 seconds of the tenth round.

And the rain, pouring down on 10,000 spectators in the open air stadium, probably will be remembered longer than the fight.

It was too late to call things off and the rains continued right through the championship bout, reaching a moist climax just as Pep finally found the range with a series of devastating wallops that left Sierra flat on the canvas while Referee Jack Dempsey dispensed with the formality of a count.

Although the lanky Cuban had gone 10 rounds with Pep in a non-title bout last summer, it was obvious from the start that he was no match for Pep. Willie tested him in a strenuous first round, then virtually coasted until the ninth, jabbing, dodging, catching punches on his arms and using his right only on rare occasions when there was a clear shot.

Sierra was down for a count of two in the second round, half stumbling after taking a left hook. Then, using a jiggling, annoying style of defensive boxing plus occasional flurries of body punches, he managed to stay out of trouble until the ninth.

Pep set the Cuban up for the finish with a left hook to the body that left Sierra gasping. A right smash to the head sent Sierra down for a count of five. He managed to last out the round.

On the basis of the estimated 10,000 attendance and $75,000 gate receipts, Promoter Clarence Kay Kantrowitz probably took as bad a financial beating financially as Sierra did in the ring. He had guaranteed Pep $32,300 and the promotional expenses for this bout were unusually high.

Irish Pat Isn't Sure Godoy Is Better Man

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Arturo Godoy, South American heavyweight champion, won a 10-round decision from Irish Pat Richard last night, but the Ohio State university pre-med student isn't convinced the veteran from Chile is the better man.

No sooner had Referee Tony La Branch of Cleveland lifted the 35-year-old Godoy's gloved hand than the 24-year-old ex-Marine was clamoring for another chance, although he had been downed twice and the decision was unanimous. It was his third loss in 27 fights.

Al Weill, Godoy's manager, and promoter Al Haft agreed to a return match in May.

Also in the wind, Weill and Haft said, is a June date between the Godoy-Richard winner and Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati.

A crowd of 3,492 paid $14,723 to see last night's scrap. Godoy dropped the former Marine for a nine count in the first round and repeated for an eight count in the fourth.

Football's Glory? Or Diamond's Cash For Vic Janowicz

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Vic Janowicz of Elyria, who will turn 18 tomorrow, faced the hard choice today between the glory of college football and the wonderful cash of major league football.

Janowicz is the current "super" high school athlete of Ohio sports. One seems to come up every year or so but in Vic's case the classification appears justified.

As an Elyria High school athlete he earned nine letters in baseball, basketball and football. He even shoots a respectable "85" in golf and was a fine pole-vaulter in track until he gave it up because of a leg injury.

He has already received offers from 50 or more colleges to play football and all 16 major league baseball clubs are reportedly after his signature on a contract.

Within three months, when he will graduate, he must decide, but many of those close to him in Elyria feel that it boils down to either Ohio State or the Cleveland Indians.

Janowicz admitted that a major league offer would be hard to turn down if it contained a bonus, a long-term contract, and an opportunity to gain his college education at the same time.

"My greatest ambition is to be a baseball player," Vic said.

His baseball and basketball coach, Ralph Bauer, thinks Janowicz is tops.

"He's 100 per cent plus in competitive spirit," Bauer said. "He does everything excellently. He has a good temperament. He's about the best all-around athlete I've ever seen. He has as good a chance to make the majors as any boy I've ever watched."

HEGAN ONLY LIKELY INDIAN HOLDOUT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25—When spring training opens in Tucson, Ariz., Monday for the Cleveland Indians, Bill Veeck thinks the only likely absentee will be his first string catcher, Jim Hegan.

But Veeck still isn't too worried, he says, about having a good man behind the plate. He feels he has a couple of good prospects in Joe Tipton and Hank Ruszkowski—especially Tipton.

With four unsigned contracts for Hegan stowed away in the front office, Veeck had this to say about Tipton:

In the first place, he won the Eastern league batting championship last year with a .375, nearly 40 points better than any other average in the circuit.

"And the best feature of his performance last year is that he was consistent. I followed his average all season and I don't think he varied more than 10 points.

Less experienced than Tipton, Ruszkowski was with the Indians throughout 1947 and hit well in the few times he played. Of his seven hits, three were homers and two were doubles.

Johnsville, Edison Win Morrow Games

Special to The Star

IBERIA, Feb. 25—Johnsville, playing in the Morrow county tourney last night, defeated Chesterville 54-34. Loren Donelson and Lloyd Grogg combined talents to hit 25 points in leading the winners, while Ebersole chalked 15 tallies for the losers.

Edison's Tigers, in the final contest of the night, snowed Iberia's Presidents, 53-32, as Norman Worline flipped 18 counters and Maynard Boare counted seven fielders and three fouls for 17 points. Dick Hendershot garnered 16 to lead the Presidents.

Dick Hendershot, Don McDonald, Arden Garverick, and Gene Osborne were playing their last games for Iberia. All are seniors.

CO-CHAMPS

Bucyrus and Central Junior High schools, both boasting records of 6-2 in the junior circuit, and not having a tournament or playoff to eliminate one, were awarded duplicate championship trophies yesterday by school officials.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25—Trainer Jimmy Jones won't say anything, but you'd be pretty safe in betting that Armed never will run another race. Jimmy sticks to his statement that the "Golden Geiding" no longer can carry 130 pounds, and that's the kind of assignments he'd draw . . . Another good bet is that Clarence (Mr. Kay) Kantrowitz, the "amateur" who promoted last night's Pep-Sierra fight has a lot more knowledge and less money than he had when he came here a month ago . . . . Kantrowitz, a film distributor who is dabbling in television and maybe a few more businesses, figures he could afford to take a loss, but the boys who came down from West 49th street to a beach with sand all wanted to be paid for their vacations . . .

LEE EVANS, youthful Miami sports writer, heard so often that Humberto Sierra didn't have a punch that he decided to find out for himself . . . He arranged to go one round against the Cuban in training and was belted out in 54 seconds . . . When Pete Norton, the Tampa scribe, heard about that one, he moaned: Does that mean that when I criticise a football player or a jockey I have to get in there and play tackle or ride a horse? That's making things too tough.

DANNY LAMONT'S Widener handicap winner, El Mono, will race in the double event at Tropical Park before going north. In two races, the colt has won $68,200—considerably more than the whole Calumet string has collected.

Cincinnati Again Assured Tie For Mid-American Cage Title

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Cincinnati's Bearcats today were assured, for the second straight year, a 50 per cent share of the Mid-American basketball championship.

If they beat Ohio university Saturday night, the 'Cats can [illegible] the whole title.

Butler university, which shared the crown with Cincinnati last year, will go it again if Cincy loses to Ohio U. and the Hoosiers trim Western Reserve Saturday.

This situation came about last night when the Bearcats defeated Miami university, 70-65, with some accurate free-throw shooting.

Miami outscored Cincinnati from the field, 60-56, but hit on only five of 13 free throw tries, while the Bearcats made 14 of 20.

Cincy's victory highlighted a 14-game schedule last night. Elsewhere:

Ohio university trimmed Ohio Wesleyan's Ohio Conference leaders in a non-conference game, 54. The winners, paced by the points scored by Dick Shrider and Mark Wylie, led at halftime, 12. Chuck Buttermore hit for for Wesleyan.

Wooster (won 16-lost 2) stayed atop the overall Ohio standings with a 50-49 defeat of Otterbein as center Pat Milligan sank four free throws in the closing minutes. Otterbein (7-6) led most of the way.

Akron (14-0) never was threatened in humbling Mount Union (13-3) at Akron, 50-30.

John Stozich hit 30 points for Steubenville (3-16) but it wasn't enough as Hiram (6-9) won going away, 71-61.

Wittenberg's Gene Fellner had a little more to show for his 29 points. The Lutherans (7-10) beat Denison (2-14) with ease, 83-35.

PITT STUDENTS ASK OUSTER OF HAGAN

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25 — A committee of students and alumni today told the University of Pittsburgh to get out of big-time football or get a team that can play it.

The recommendation came in a 14-page report submitted to Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald. He will lay it before the university board of trustees on Friday.

The report also suggested that the university fire Athletic Director James Hagan, who was blamed for many of the school's ills. It recommended that head Football Coach Mike Milligan be given another chance next season to see if he can make good. His team won one, lost eight games last fall.

The committee, composed of three alumni and three students, worked nearly four months on the report.

The group interviewed everyone connected with athletics at the university. It talked to faculty members, alumni, football players and public officials. It went out of town to question high school coaches, many of them Pitt graduates.

It came up with this answer: When Pitt "de-emphasized" its athletic program nearly 10 years ago it forgot to "de-emphasize" its football and basketball schedules. The committee called the ill-fated grid schedule of 1947 "the toughest in the school's history."

TO PROBE HOCKEY BETTING SCANDAL

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb. 25 — Brandishing as "ridiculous" reports of a possible hockey betting scandal, but nevertheless determined to investigate any infraction of National league rules, President Clarence Campbell was due here today for a conference with Detroit Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy.

Toy issued a statement yesterday associating two professional players with an ex-convict in the reported bets. He did not name the ringsmen, but said one was a member of the Boston Bruins and the other played with the New York Rangers.

He said reports were of supposed telephone conversations regarding bets on league games between the players and James Tamer, 36-year-old convicted bank robber who recently was returned to prison as a parole violator. Tamer is suspected of heading a Detroit gambling ring.

The commissioner pointed out that his information "does not sustain any criminal case" and was not of "sufficient strength to base an accusation."

"I don't care whether it is legal evidence or not if it establishes the facts to my satisfaction," Campbell announced in New York.

"If anything contrary to NHL regulations has transpired, the league's rules are adequate to deal with the situation."

Campbell stopped in Toronto last night to confer with Art Ross, general manager and coach of the Bruins.

"We don't believe a word of it," asserted Ross, who said he had interviewed all his players. He demanded that Toy name those involved.

In New York Manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers called the report "fantastic" and said he had questioned his players individually with all of them denying knowledge of any betting activities.

CORONER ADDRESSES GALION ROTARY CLUB

Special to The Star

GALION—Emphasizing fellowship and classification, two important factors in making Rotary what it is today, Dr. O. R. Kackley, Crawford county coroner and Galion health commissioner, spoke to the Galion Rotary club members, Monday night, at the regular meeting, pertaining to Rotary's anniversary.

Dr. Kackley told the group of the dependence of each person upon others, not only for fellowship, but for business and professional relationships, and everyday living. Rotary, he said, had 5,073 clubs in the world in 1940, and approximately 211,000 members at that time. He gave these figures for 1940 because that was the peak year before clubs were disbanded in the totalitarian countries. Dr. Kackley also told how Rotary has been instrumental in initiating crippled children's work in Ohio.

Another club member, M. D. Bonsteel, informed the group that four packages of used clothing have been sent by the Galion Rotary club to a Rotary club in Denmark. The clothing will be distributed to the needy in a Denmark town by the Rotary club of the town, he said.

George Coble, chairman of the club city manager study, said that he had received favorable comments in seven letters from various Ohio towns, comparable in size to Galion, about the Council-City manager form of government which they have in these towns.

Club members were urged to attend the district conference at Lima, March 14 and 15, in a short talk by W. Y. McCulloch, chairman of the On-to-Lima committee. John F. Porter, Galion's new service-safety director, and Eugene Thayer, were welcomed as new members, and Robert Porter, Mansfield Rotarian, was greeted as a guest.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

As if my words had had power to summon them, the men outside fulfilled my prophecy to Georges almost before I had finished refusing his request for a private talk.

"They're coming back, Mis' Graham," Gus called. With his invariable habit of telling me everything first, if my father is not in the car. "I'm unlocking the door. They've got it fixed."

The men came trooping in, Joe first, diving for the driver's seat, and setting himself in it. The two guards came next, and Mr. "K." last, all hurrying, I told myself, as if the devil himself were driving them with whips.

Gus slid the catch on the door, and the instant it was fast Joe sent the car forward.

"Good man, Joe," Mr. "K." commented as he came back to us after what appeared to me to be a miraculous balancing of himself against the motion of the car.

"He works at lightning speed," he went on, "with never a false motion. And that's a miraculous contraption he has to fit over the tire. He said to tell you he's going straight up the East river drive, we're almost on it now, and over the triborough to a garage your father knows on the other side. He says he doesn't care much for the tunnel and Queen's Boulevard: too close for comfort in the tunnel, and too much traffic on the boulevard."

"I know," I said, smiling, "I think Joe gets claustrophobia in any tunnel."

"Well, I can't say that I blame him," the FBI man said. "After all, if there's a chance of your being a target for bullets, even if you are in an armored car, it's a bit better being on a wide bridge than in a narrow tunnel.

"But that's not all of my message," he went on. "Joe says we're to draw the curtains once we're across the bridge, no need to do it now, for there's no chance of anybody seeing inside from the ground outside. But inside the garage, he wants to take no chances of anybody seeing the three of us as passengers. And he says that while he and the guards are helping to work on the car, Gus is to remain inside and fix up your bed. Then you can lie down, and drop off to sleep as soon as you're able to do so. I've heard of your marvelous ability to sleep and waken and sleep again, with apparently no disturbance of your nerves."

"It's one of my most valued possessions," I told him, "but I really shall be glad of the chance for a nap as we are traveling out."

I did not voice the real reason for my joy at the prospect of ensconsing myself on the couch, whether I should be able to sleep or not. But I knew that even Georges would not venture to press his plea for a private discussion of his problems were I fast asleep.

"You'll have the chance very soon at the rate Joe is traveling," Mr. "K." said. Then gave me a quizzical smile.

"I'm still curious," he said. "You say you have given your Katie code instructions about that chicken dinner to be in readiness some time after midnight, but I do not see how she is going to know within an hour or two of the exact time she should serve it. And your father's instructions—"

He paused and I give him back his quizzical smile.

"She does not need to know the exact time," I said. "A stewed chicken dinner is one of the things you can cook beforehand, even to the gravy, and heat any time in a few minutes. And Katie will have her dessert, whatever it is all prepared. And she will have her vegetables cooked and kept warm over boiling water, and her biscuits will be in pans all ready to pop into the oven, which she can heat in a jiffy. They will bake while the other things are heating, and she is making the coffee. Her tables, of course, will be set, and we will have dinner, I warrant you, within twenty minutes of our arrival."

"I'm ravenous, already," Mr. "K." said, and dismissed the dinner, with the comment, talking instead of trivial things until we reached the garage, a big building, in the rear of which the armored car was promptly shielded from observation, deduced that it had been services there before.

Gus let down the rear seat and fixed blankets and pillows for a couch for me. I slipped of my hat, coat and shoes, realizing that my dress would be wrinkled, but that Katie would set it right, and slipped into comfort between the blankets.

I was asleep almost instantly, awakening only when Mr. "K.'s" fingers gently pressed my wrist. I wakened with the vague thought that he also knew Katharine's technique of wakening people without shock, but roused to full consciousness when he said: "I do not understand. Your house is in total darkness. Can anything be wrong?"

DEATH OF WOMAN FOUND IN AUTO INVESTIGATED

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 25—FBI agents today entered the investigation into the death of Nancy Boyer, attractive 25-year-old stenographer. Their course, however, was not disclosed.

Miss Boyer's body was found Saturday in an automobile parked before her rooming house here.

Police Chief Walter L. Sweet said the automobile was owned by Charles W. Hatch, 35, a Greenfield attorney. Sweet said Hatch admitted being intimate with Miss Boyer during a 14-day trip to the southwest immediately preceding her death.

Authorities released Hatch yesterday "pending further call."

Coroner Austin Richards in a preliminary investigation attributed Miss Boyer's death to an overdose of sleeping medicine. He ordered an analysis of her stomach.

FIGHT GRASS FIRES

UPPER SANDUSKY — Grass fires along the railroad tracks near here brought two fire calls to the Crane township pumper truck in Upper Sandusky. Sunday the flames were spreading from the Pennsylvania right of way east of town and Monday the blaze was along the Chesapeake and Ohio at the west edge of Upper Sandusky. The fire was halted at both places before it reached threatened buildings.

ila over the Baltic States, but that in Russia's own interest, from the viewpoint of her position in the world, it would be a good thing for her to say that she would be willing, two years or so after the war, to hold a second plebiscite in the Baltic countries. While Russia was satisfied that the plebiscite she had already held was conclusive, he commented, the rest of the world did not seem to think so. He thought that the same idea might be applied to eastern Poland, but that the new boundary in any event should be somewhat east of the so-called Curzon line, with Lemberg (Lwow) going to Poland, and that a plebiscite should be held after the shell-shock of war had subsided.

MR. ROOSEVELT FELT that the Baltic passages—Kiel and the Straits—might each be set up as a free zone under international trustees, and that a similar zone might be arranged for Russia to the Persian Gulf.

At noon on the sunshiny day of Oct. 7 I went to the Washington airport and boarded an airplane for Moscow—the first time I had ever put foot in one.

The plane, a four-engined transport, was followed by two similar planes largely containing Army and Navy personnel.

After I boarded the plane, Commander Frank Myers, who was sent by the Navy to supervise the oxygen on the plane, pointed out to me the emergency exits to use in case the craft had to "ditch" on water. The fact of several exits, I said, reminded me of the story of the old gentleman in Tennessee who kept three cats. A friend, visiting him one day, noticed three large semi-circular holes cut in the bottom of the front door.

"What are those for?" he asked.

"To let my cats out," was the reply.

"But why won't one hole do them?"

"Because," the old gentleman retorted emphatically, "When I say 'scat!' I mean 'scat!'"

OUR FIRST LAP was to West Palm Beach. Over Georgia the plane had to go up to 10,000 feet and at 8,000 feet I was made to wear an oxygen mask. Elderly men do not react well to high flying altitudes, which are prone to bring on heart attacks, but I experienced no discomfort.

The next lap, the following morning, was to San Juan, Puerto Rico. There we boarded the cruiser "Phoenix" to make the Atlantic crossing to North Africa.

We landed at Casablanca. I was met by Robert Murphy, our foreign service officer who was handling our political affairs in North Africa, and taken immediately to the airport. There we boarded our plane, which meantime had flown the Atlantic.

Murphy accompanied us on the next stage of the flight, which was to Algiers, and gave me a summary of his latest impressions on the situation in North Africa and Italy. At Algiers I dined with General Eisenhower, who came from Italy for the occasion and whose personality and confidence impressed me greatly. I also received a visit from General de Gaulle. We had a long, reasonably frank conversation, without reaching any decisions. De Gaulle was more friendly than I thought would be the case, but his extensive political ambitions seemed to me to seethe just below the surface.

FROM ALGIERS WE made a flight to Cairo. I slept fairly well in a berth. The following morning we took off for Tehran, Iran.

British Foreign Secretary Eden had cabled me suggesting he and I meet for a preliminary conference at Cairo before going on to Moscow. I replied that our Russian friends were rather suspicious generally and that it might look as if Britain and the United States were forming a common policy in advance of discussing it with Russia. However, when I reached Tehran, Eden, following his own schedule, arrived at somewhat the same time. We thereupon met to exchange a few greetings and casual observations, without entering into any real discussion.

At Tehran two Russian navigators came aboard. We were also joined by W. Averell Harriman, our new Ambassador to Russia, who continued on with us.

We arrived in Moscow late in the afternoon of a cold October day, the 18th, just as the sun was setting. Molotov and Litvinov, as well as Donald Nelson, chief of our war production board, and a large crowd of other officials, were at the airport to meet us. Molotov and Litvinov greeted me warmly. I then drove to the American Embassy.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 — The stock market extended its comparatively quiet dealings today. Prices moved somewhat mixed operations, industrial shares generally inching higher on balance, led by rubbers and steels. Nearly all gains ranging from fractions to more than a point were soon trimmed.

Investment houses said that interest still leaned to the sidelines in hopes of a technical reaction.

Leaders of the upturn included Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern preferred, Transcontinental & Western Air, U. S. Gypsum, International Paper, Douglas Aircraft, Deere, J. I. Case, Phelps Dodge and Union Carbide. Behind at times were American Can and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Bonds were narrow and cotton futures advanced.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 — Grains opened with modest gains on the board of trade today. Strength in other markets helped cereals. There was very little selling pressure.

Wheat started ¼-1¼ cents higher, May $2.37¾-½; corn was unchanged to ½ higher, May $2.-16½-2.17, and oats were ¼-2¾ higher, May $1.08-1.08½. The extreme gains in oats was shown by the relatively inactive March contract.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Things are slowly getting back to normal . . . Admiral Byrd is waxing his skiis again.

* * *

It is assumed he is going to the Antarctic but some think he may be getting ready to evacuate brother Harry's Dixie Democrats to the deeper South.

Byrd is outfitting three ships and if he names them the Piedmont, the Nashville and the Santa Fe . . . We'll know.

The admiral was telling his plans to a group in New York and he said, "There's a fascination, a mysterious timelessness that keeps pulling me back to that strange weird place."

* * *

A man in the audience said, "That's the best description of Washington I ever heard . . . Now tell us about the South Pole."

* * *

The admiral will be away for many months . . . In fact when the absentee ballots are received next November, the one with the frost on it will be his.
